

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Continue to be your awesome hardworking self you have excellent study habits and bring that to the group
others	Ankit always keeps the team on top of assignments and projects He ensures we are submitting our best work possible and has lots of great ideas and contributions He gives everyone great feedback on our assignments and projects and is respectful of all opinions He has been a pleasure to work this and get to know this year
others	Ankit you have been such a pleasure to work with this year and our team wouldn't have been the same without you Your leadership and your acute observation skills were very much seen and appreciated in this group You were always very conscious of the team and each individual team member which is an amazing skill to have that many take years to gain I think that without a doubt you will make a great OT or doctor whichever you decide to pursue others	Ankit your thoughtfulness knowledge and passion made each meeting more enjoyable
others	He is very concise and effective in group work He always contributes a great deal to the whole project One thing he could work on is being more sensitive or accepting of others ideas He would fact check many people's ideas This sometimes felt like he didn't trust other people's knowledge