

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Taylor you are a very hard worker and have been very dedicated to our team Your work was always thorough and well done During challenging decision making during meetings you voiced your opinion very clearly and passionately At times this clear communication was very helpful and at other times it may have been a bit too forward In future groups it may be helpful to find ways to balance providing constructive feedback along with positive feedback highlighting strengths to group members as well Your attention to detail and ability to plan ahead was very helpful to our group on many occasions It has been great having you in the group others	You work hard on the projects You are flexible to take on different roles parts within the assignment You complete work efficiently and effectively You work well with a partner on assignments Try to be more direct open when you have a conflict or when something is bothering you
others	Taylor It s been really great getting to know you throughout this school year You re really good at getting the project going and laying out what we should be doing to get the project done You are very reliable and the work you do is valuable It might be helpful going forward to give other group members more validation for their ideas even if they may be differing from the majority of the group