

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Keep up your positive attitude Even when things get stressful you never take it out on other group members and keep smiling Continue to refocus the group when we get off task but also doing it in a way that doesn t feel forceful or as if you are irritated Keep being flexible and open to other group member s ideas
others	You are so approachable and have a great personality to work with I appreciate the flexibility you have in our team dynamic and how you have many skills to offer Keep being flexible in your next group
others	You were so supportive and positive and you always helped us to stay on track Your whiteboard organization skills are off the charts Sometimes your Rs look like Ks but that s okay It was a pleasure to be on your team
others	Great to work with You were always well prepared kept us on task and showed up to group meetings with a smile and positive attitude
others	Keep doing everything you currently are great job