

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Thank you for being an amazing team member You re strong knowledge base from course work and prior work experience is greatly appreciated You are always willing to help the team in any way and bring a fun lighthearted energy to the team No matter how stressed we all are you always make us smile Keep being you
others	Thank you for all your hard work this term Thank you for doing a great job of looking at the bigger picture sharing your ideas and opinions and keeping us on the right track Thank you for your kindness and genuineness Great job
others	Michelle is very flexible and open minded Michelle is able to vocalize and support her opinions about certain tasks though she is extremely respectful and considerate of all members opinions all the time Michelle is very dedicated to group work and ensures that she puts all of her effort into ensuring that it is done to the best of the group s abilities She is willing to support all members of the group as she has formed strong relationships which helps to make the group environment much more enjoyable
others	Awesome job You have so much knowledge and understanding on the content which has been so helpful in our group projects Furthermore your kind caring and humorous personality makes our group meetings so much more enjoying You are going to be a wonderful OT