

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Continue being a flexible team player and going where you re needed e g acting presenting or writing depending on the project Continue being a good organizer and mediator for the group e g getting a meeting back on track Continue being an understanding and kind teammate others	Kelly s flexibility and go with the flow attitude is amazing for our group dynamic She is happy to do whichever part the group needs her to do and always completes her parts of the project on time and with a 100 effort Keep being a great team player and keep bringing your positive attitude and smile to group meetings
others	Kelly does an excellent job of encouraging all group members to participate and ensuring that the group acknowledges and engages with everyone s input others	Kelly is effective at orienting the group back to the task when others are distracted She always contributes her ideas and opinions and validates seeks out the thoughts of other group members
others	Kelly you have been excellent at mediating meetings and making sure we have finalized ideas and come to conclusions about them as a whole You work so calmly with others and always know how to inject a bit of humour to lighten up a group meeting You were always on the ball with finding research that was relevant and applicable to our projects It has been a pleasure working with you on the learning team this year