

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Continue to actively check references for group assignments Bring more of your background as an OTA to our group discussions
others	Keep Doing Always willing to contribute and listen Clarify misunderstandings Our genius reference list creator Keeps the group accountable for their parts
others	Megan was my partner for facilitating and I am so glad She put a lot of time and focus into the work we did and was supportive of all my work and ideas throughout the project I will never know how she can keep all of our references straight for every project but she does Megan made herself available to me while I edited the group protocol to bounce ideas off of and to ask for help She used previous experiences to develop strong ideas and oriented us towards a specific focus During the session she kept us on task and worked hard to show the students she respected them She seemed confident and even keeled the student responded really well to her and her instruction I felt like we were a great partnership in the room
others	I would say Megan is the mediator within our group this is extremely helpful to have as our group is very energetic and often we find that we are all talking all at once and sharing many of our ideas and this can get to be a little hectic However Megan always realizes this and mediates the group so that we can have a solid group discussion Megan ensures that every voice within our group is heard
others	Megan contributes to our group by being organized and helping us make a plan to begin assignments She shares ideas listens to others and is encouraging She also help us with referencing