

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Keep doing what you are doing You are a natural leader and a valued member of the team You help to foster a positive team environment and your strong communication skills help to keep our groups on task and organized others	Thank you so much for your hard work this term You have a lot of strengths in organization editing keeping us on track You have a lot of skills in leadership great job
others	Meaghan you do such a great job with thinking about and planning ahead on assignments You help keep our team on track and on target for getting our assignments completed on time and well I will really miss having you as a teammate next year
others	Meaghan is very organized and informed about group work and she constantly takes initiative in booking rooms and helps to set group meeting goals Meaghan should continue bringing forward strong creative and thoughtful ideas to different assignments and projects However she should continue to work on being open minded and respectful of other group member s opinions when conflict arises and to approach resolution and compromise in an optimistic way Meaghan is respectful and kind towards her group members as she has built strong relationships and effective communication which helps the work environment to remain enjoyable and productive