

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	You re awesome Thanks for always helping the team stay focused on the task and remembering all the little details that we sometimes forget
others	Becca thank you for always keeping our group on task and helping us get our projects organized You are so encouraging and always find the positive in every situation I really appreciate how you are quick to highlight people s strengths and being an encouraging voice in times of stress I will really miss having you as a teammate next year
others	Rebecca is very driven and focused She helps the team to stay on task and provides the group with goals to accomplish by the end of each session Rebecca should work on vocalizing her opinions louder so that they can be valued by the group and on providing timely feedback Rebecca helps to mediate any group conflict with her positive attitude and collected demeanour Rebecca is always calm and respectful to all group members in the team and should continue to be thoughtful and creative in her ideas that she brings forward
others	Great work Your always able to help us stay focused and your input and edits are always on point and appreciated You always help us focus on the details and make sure we don t forget anything your keen eye and attention to detail is appreciated