

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Thank you so much for your hard work this term You do a wonderful job as a harmonizer on the team always trying to hear and coordinate everyone s thoughts and opinions on the team You also do a great job at keeping us on track and staying positive Great job
others	Emily thank you for always being the one to bring things into perspective for the group when we are getting hung up on things or stressed You do such a great job encouraging everyone and finding everyone s strengths I will really miss having you as a teammate next year
others	Emily presents as very calm and respectful throughout all group meetings and discussions She is willing to take on work to help the team wherever possible and aims to help be a mediator in meetings in order for them to run as smoothly as possible Emily should work on delegating some tasks as well as vocalizing her opinions louder so that they can be valued by the group Emily is caring and flexible in group interactions which fosters positive group environments
others	You always take on a leadership role and manage work effectively and timely it is much appreciated Your optimistic approach and ability to help focus the group always helps us stay on track Great Work