

TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to “Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency”. Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Keep it up with the productivity and efficiency that helps the group run like a well oiled machine Your ability to help us work through a task or act as the peacemaker is essential to our group process and your support is felt by your other group members Please try to hold back a little bit if you can on completing the whole assignment or portion ahead of time or before we have determined roles if only because it sometimes makes us feel guilty for our own lack of contribution This might be difficult because you re such a go getter and that s an amazing quality others	You worked well with the group on this project As always you were very organized and contributed so much to the organization of our session plans You have great ideas for all of our group work so don t hesitate to share them openly You work very efficiently and always find very useful input others	You are the one that keeps everyone moving forward by helping us with the logistical details This is so valuable and a great asset You are incredibly reliable and hardworking and it shows and is so appreciated this honestly makes the group feel safe Don t hesitate to hand things off to others if you need to or if it just seems fair You also have really great ideas so don t hesitate to share those more often others	You ve been an excellent team member Your contributions were always good and usually done early