TeamQ Report

Team-Q was developed for self and peer assessment of an individual's teamwork skills. It is designed for undergraduate education as a practical method for assessing teamwork as a learning outcome. The following describes teamwork behaviors, with students report on a five point scale how often their peers (and self) demonstrate each of the behaviors (Never, Sometimes, Usually, Regularly, Always).

TeamQ Ratings Radar

Below is a radar chart that presents the results of your teammates rating of your abilities and your own ratings of your abilities. The ratings of your teammates have been averaged together for ease of comparison.

Suggestions to Improve

Part of the TeamQ was to "Write one specific, actionable goal to help your teammate improve their teamwork competency". Presented below are the goals you wrote for yourself, followed by the goals your teammates wrote for you.

Feedback	Comment
others	Continue bringing in your knowledge experiences from your previous Masters program when beneficial Continue making great summaries for group work Continue taking a role in the tech areas when possible e g creating power points videos etc as this is a great strength for you Try to show up to meetings consistently on time
others	Emily has unbelievable computer skills that gives our group a creative edge Her formatting and editing skills makes our projects go from a B to an A Emily helps out other team members when needed and also brings relevant background knowledge and research skills to the group Keep bringing your tech skills background knowledge and research skills to the group
others	Keep looking at the details that can often sometimes be overlooked it is always beneficial to notice the details that others may not as it helps with the overall project
others	Emily always contributes to the group and often documents brainstorming sessions and clarifies information as needed She is very effective at pulling together information from multiple sources and the opinions of the group members
others	Emily you rocked our technological projects video infographics etc and were excellent at editing them and synthesizing everyone s contributions into them I also liked that you thought of ideas from different angles sometimes and contributed these to the group as it made us consider other sides to an idea which enhanced a lot of our projects It has been a great experience working with you on the learning team this year